Some Baseball Talk

By HALF NELSON.

The Richmond fans who have seen! Deacon Morrissey work against the simple. Win Clark is carrying out Colts will be more than tickled fool- the idea this year with a team that with the Colts. His signature to s department, but there is a batter con-Richmond contract makes one man above the salary limit, but with Re-team, in spite of perfect delding the velle, Hale, Verbout and Salve waiting will go to the Carolinas.

Morrissey has worked at a twominute gait ever since he came to the Virginia League, and he is a good one. His average is about as good as any of the others, and he is a good steady, consistent man to hold down any team. He is in good condition, and the Deacon attached to his name was put there because he is as steady off the field as he is on.

It was a great idea of Jack Law-lor's to let Peewee King, who had made a first-class showing while with Richmond, go and leave the Colts without a left fielder. Of course, he may have thought that the other man he had signed was coming in time to play against Danville yesterday, and he may have thought that King was he may have thought that King was not as great a man as the Colts desire, but he might have kept him and saved a little bacon for the Colts.

Hale's job is in the box and he can hold that job. He can also hold up his end at the batters' box occasionally, but there is nothing in the world to show that he can play the field. The hit that Hooker made yesterday afternoon was a good one and terday afternoon was a good one and it won the game but who knows what the result would have been if a real fielder had been on the job? Not that Hale is not all that he should be, but he never posed as a fielder. And the fielder's job includes the ability to hit the ball out for a safety when the occasion arises. With only two fielders on the team, the hitting is liable to slump. Speaking of hitting, Richmond has never had a really hard hitting team. The fielding department of the team has always been of the first water, but ways held out for sluggers pure and ish to hear that he has been signed is only on the average in the fielding team, in spite of perfect fielding, the for some one to pick the loser, the betting begins right now that Salve will go to the Carolinas.

opposing team never knows when it has a game won. A hit is a hit, and will go to the Carolinas. like a hit and pulls it down, or Landgraff breaks his neck to get a grass cutter that is bound due west, or something else happens that is out of the ordinary, the hit counts. Bunch two or three of those hits together and the game is gone sky-binding and the three or four runs that the field-ing team had managed to pull home are of no more consideration than a last year's June apple.

Incidentally, Jack Lawlor is going to be on the injured list a whole lot longer than the fans think. A sprained ankle is a sprained ankle, and a break is a much smaller injury. He will be able to walk around with-

He will be able to walk around within a week or two, but the strain of a dash about the bags will pull those tendons away again and he may go back to the crutch and stick.

A bench manager, however, has the shade over the man playing in the field, and Lawlor, if he will use his head instead of his legs, can make himself invaluable to the Colts. From the bench he can hand out a line of generalship such as has made a bunch generalship such as has made a bunch of men famous in the big leagues. There are a whole lot of games won from the bench, and his time to get on is right now.

Owner Bradley denied the report yesterday that Lawler is to resign.

Well Known Danville Pitcher Added-to Lawlor's Staff.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Danville, Va., May 23.—Deacon Mor-rissey, of the local pitching staff, was has always been of the first water, but somehow or other the hitters have never developed. It's rather curious to see how one club will always insist on fielders and another will stake its last dollar on a batter. And as a fact, although it is a little distasteful, the hitters generally take the pennant home.
